

Employability Seminar

There are a wide variety of job types available in the field of Political Science - and online is only one of the many places you will find them. Did you know that over 75% of available roles are not advertised?

- Learn how to network electronically and professionally - how to find professional contacts and how to maintain them once connected.
- Understand the practical steps necessary to interact with industry representatives and gain relevant and valuable contacts and mentors well before graduation.
- How to seek experience before you graduate - this is the best way to build your employability and bring value to a new employer .
- This session will also review:
 - Australian Graduate Recruitment cycle
 - Job searching in Australia and overseas
 - Where, when and how to apply
 - How to gain work experiences that look fantastic on your resume.
