

Seminar

“Human Security as Ontological Security: A Post-Secular Approach”

Professor Giorgio Shani will critically interrogate the emergence of Human Security as a response to the ontological insecurity wrought by the globalization of neo-liberalism. For Anthony Giddens to be ‘ontologically secure is to possess, on the level of the unconscious and practical consciousness, “answers” to fundamental existential questions which all human life in some way addresses.’ Religion and nationalism provide ‘answers’ to these questions in times of rapid socio-economic and cultural change. The dislocation engendered by successive waves of neo-liberal globalization has resulted in the deracination of many of the world’s inhabitants resulting in a state of collective ‘existential anxiety.’ Under such conditions of existential anxiety, the search for identity and community becomes paramount. However, secular conceptions- including ‘critical’ accounts- of Human Security as ‘freedom from fear and want’ fail to take into account the importance of identity for security. It will be suggested that a ‘post-secular’ understanding of Human Security is better able to provide ontological security in times of rapid global transformation but only if it accounts for the centrality of religion to post-colonial subjectivity as a legacy of colonialism.

Professor Giorgio Shani

Professor Giorgio Shani PhD (London) is Chair of Politics and International Relations and Director of the Rotary Peace Center at International Christian University, Tokyo. From 2016-2017, he was Visiting Senior Fellow at the Centre of International Studies at the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE). He is author of Sikh Nationalism and Identity in a Global Age (Routledge 2008) and Religion, Identity and Human Security (Routledge 2014). He has published widely in internationally reviewed journals including International Studies Review, The Cambridge Review of International Affairs and Postcolonial Studies (forthcoming). He is a series editor of Critical Perspectives on Religion in International Politics (Rowman and Littlefield International) and currently serving as President of the Asia-Pacific region of the International Studies Association.

WHEN: Tuesday 23rd May, 2017

WHERE: St. Lucia Campus,
GPN39A

TIME: 10am - 12:00 pm

Room 402

“Learn with the Knowledge Leaders”

THE UNIVERSITY OF QUEENSLAND
AUSTRALIA

Create change