

Seminar

“Where have all the Big Ideas gone in International Relations? ”

Public intellectuals in politics and international relations are claiming a retreat from ‘grand theory’ and ‘big ideas’. Are they right? And if so, where have the big ideas gone? The title is taken from a line in a recent Washington Post article by Dan Drezner click here for link. It also echoes the EJIR special Issue on ‘The End of IR Theory’ which Tim co-edited click here for link.

Professor Tim Dunne

Tim Dunne is Executive Dean of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences and Professor of International Relations at The University of Queensland (UQ). He is also a Senior Researcher at the Asia-Pacific Centre for the Responsibility to Protect (APR2P). Previously, he was Director of Research for the Centre from 2010-2014.

WHEN: Wednesday 26th October, 2016

WHERE: St. Lucia Campus,
Bldg24 Room S603

TIME: 12noon - 1pm

Open to Grad Students

Register here

“Learn with the Knowledge Leaders”

THE UNIVERSITY OF QUEENSLAND
AUSTRALIA

Create change